

Days Of Sweet Remembrance (reprise)

Now the ivy has gone red
Most other leaves have gone to bed
And longer night are drawing in
And though I know you're out of reach
You're turning gold upon some beach
I know that I'll see you again
For the summer it is over
And you've left me for the sun
Still my days of sweet remembrance
Have only just begun